

David D. Brown, IV

Biography

David D. Brown, IV is Executive Director and chief administrative officer of the Dormitory Authority of the State of New York. Governor Eliot Spitzer recommended Mr. Brown's nomination as Executive Director, and the Board of the Authority appointed him to the position on April 25, 2007. The Dormitory Authority is a public-benefit corporation formed by New York State to finance and build facilities for higher education, health care, the court system and nonprofit organizations.

The Authority is one of the largest and most frequent issuers of tax-exempt debt for higher education and healthcare in the United States, with a portfolio of outstanding bonds worth more than $34.2 billion. The Authority is also a large public-building construction agency, managing more than 675 construction projects worth $5.7 billion. The Dormitory Authority delivered $4.97 billion in bonds during the 2006-07 fiscal year, and expended more than $822 million on construction projects.

Mr. Brown previously served as Chief of the Investment Protection Bureau in the Office of the New York State Attorney General, where he supervised investigations of the mutual fund and insurance industries. From 2000 to 2003, he served as Vice President and Associate General Counsel at Goldman, Sachs & Co. Prior to that, Mr. Brown was a Managing Director for Deutsche Bank and Bankers Trust.

Mr. Brown received his bachelor's degree from Harvard College in 1981 and a Juris Doctor degree from Harvard Law School in 1984.
