

Gil C. Quiniones Bio

Gil C. Quiniones is the Senior Vice President of Energy & Telecommunications of the New York City Economic Development Corporation. In this position he acts as the City's chief consultant on energy policy issues. Such issues include implementing the recommendations made within the Energy portion of PlaNYC 2030, planning for both short and long-term energy resources, advocating for competitive energy prices for all City consumers and supporting the City's response to proposed energy projects such as power plants, electric transmission lines and natural gas pipelines.