

Susan Coakley

Sue Coakley is Executive Director of Northeast Energy Efficiency Partnerships (NEEP) which she helped to found in 1996 as a regional information resource for policymakers and efficiency program administrators, and to facilitate regional partnerships to advance and coordinate energy efficiency policy and program strategies. Ms. Coakley has been involved in energy policy, renewables and efficiency programs and policy advocacy since 1980. She served as the first Energy Efficiency Policy manager for the MA Department of Public Utilities, and since then has also served as an expert witness, consultant and coordinator for multi-party collaboratives to design and develop ratepayer-funded energy efficiency programs and budgets. She holds a Masters degree in Resource Management and Administration from Antioch New England, and an undergraduate degree in Environmental Science from Windham College. Since 1994 she has served on the Board of Directors of the Vermont Energy Investment Corporation. See www.neep.org for more information about NEEP.
